-A Halt to an Ineffectual Lie.

Senator Wallace and Congressman Randall, eminent Pennsylvania Democrats, always effectively supported in Congress all measures in favor of the protection of the industrial interests of Pennsylvania. Don Camerou has threatened that if the business men and manufacturers of Penn-

business men and manufacturers of l'ennsylvania do not accede to his bull dozing demands he will assail the tariff and let

Simon Cameron finding his power waning and his dynasty tottering is trying to drag down the tariff with it by identifying its cause with that of the Stalwart-Camerou rule in Pennsylvania.

MY DEAR SIR: Your note of the 5th inst. has just reached mo, enclosing a par-graph cut from the Lancaster Examiner, asserting that "the Free Trade league of New York, has given $5,000 as a cam-SPRING and SUMMER SUITING. paign "starter" towards the election of Pattison, and promises to give $15,000. more." I will answer your inquiry regarding this statement by assuring, without qualification or reservation, that there is not one word of truth in it, nor is there the slightest foundation for any statement resembling it. Permit me to add that the Free Trade league has nothing to conceal. Any one desiring information regarding its object and its work will be cheerfully informed by calling on or addressing.

Vory truly yours,
ABRAHAM L. EARLE, Secretary.

-, esq., Lancaster, Pa. Of course this story was started as campaign lie cut from the whole cloth, and no doubt intended by its author to give color to Simon Cameron's nonsense about the Independent Republicans being in league with the free traders, or to add weight to the younger Cameron's toothache tariff threat made earlier in the campaign. It is not a little significant that it should make its appearance in a Cumeron organ edited by a "howling Democrat," who has all his political life been an out-AND OUT FREE TRADER and most violent in his abuse of Republicans and Republi-can measures, as the files of the Demo-cratic paper through which he expressed his only honest convictions will show.

Giving Cameron the Toothache. The Independents of Lancaster county must have given the younger Cameron a second edition of the tariff toochache, and put even the elder Cameron to blush when S. S. Spencer and Francis Shroder, two leading cotton manufacturers; Theo. Patterson, of the Safe Harbor iron works; Abram Bitner, of the Lancaster watch company; B. B. Martin and Henry Baumgardner, leading coal operators; Mr. Mc-Clure, a large slate manufacturer; Mr. Locher, a morocco manufacturer, and others come to the front to emancipate Republicanism from Boss Cameronism.

Vital Questions Not to Be Dodged. Pennsylvania is to decide in November far below their value in order whether the Cameron mortgage upon the state shall be wiped out; whether the pardou board shall be used to keep the The suits are all made of striped jacket from the back of the political corruptionist; whether the Legisla-ture shall be organized in Don Cameron's will be sold at very low prices; which are fastened upon every department of the state government shall continue to fatten upon the money of the people; whether the state shall be placed under ocratic Candidate for Congress-man-at-Large. "The Democratic party has declared in my heart-and by this I expect to stand -that I am in favor of such a tariff as will affect justly the employer and employee. As a Pennsylvanian, I am in favor of protecting Pennsylvania's industries, not for the benefit of the manufacturer alone, but for the benefit of the laborer as well and the people in general. I don't want Simon Cameron to say, and he can not truthfully say, that one man on the Democratic ticket is averse to protecting the industries of this state. the industries of this state. as having been discovered by observers in Colorado was observed at the naval observatory in Washington yesterday after-noon. It was found in right ascension, 11 hours 19 minutes 33 seconds, and declina-tion north, no degrees and 10 minutes. The comet was easily seen with the naked eye, and exhibited a short tail, with a bright head of considerable extent. In the telescope the nucleus showed as a confused mass of bright light, indicating a large comet, with pleuty of loose material. Extending on both sides were seen bright arcs of light, presenting the appearance of a bird with outstretched wings. A dispatch was received from the observatory of Paris to the following effect:

"Thollon's comet, observed at Nice about noon, Sept. 18, three degrees west of the sun. The nucleus gives a continuous spectrum very brilliant and very much extended towards the violet. Both tail and nucleus give the sodium lines extremely brilliant, very sharply divided and charac-teristic. They seem disposed toward the

The spectroscopic observations reported in the above dispatch are of extraordinary interest. They indicate that this is the second comet that has shown a sodium spectrum. The first was that discovered this year by Wells at the Dudiey observatory, and observed at that institution in full daylight.

The reported displacement of the two sodium lines towards the red end of the spectrum is of the highest interest, since it indicates that the comet is now moving toward the earth with planetary velocity. Such an observation has never before been made in the case of any comet. From the position given in the above dispatch the comet is moving westward from the sun at the rate of five or six de grees daily. It is almost certain that the comet has now passed the perihelion or point where it is nearest the sun. Astronomers will now be anxious to learn if this comet is indentical with the one recently discovered in South America. If this idenity is proved it will follow that it has approached very near the sun-probably as close as did the great comet of 1880the comet which had the smallest perihe-lion distance ou record Several days must elapse before the particulars of the orbit can be calculated by astronomers, and this question be definitely settled. The comet at three o'clock yesterday was nine degrees west of the sun, and it probably increased this distance by sunrise to-day to twelve or thirteen degrees. It, therefore, rose somewhat before the sun, but owing to the fact that it is also farther south than the sun it could not be readily seen before sunrise. It a few days, however, with its present rate and direction of motion, it should become a brilliant object in the morning sky. On the whole this may be regarded as one of the most extraordinary comets of modern times. The only one which rescubles it in its special features of interest is the great comet of 1843, which, like this one, was visible to the naked eye in full Barnard's comet was also observed at the naval observatory at 4 o'clock, by Professor Frisbie. Its right ascension was 7 hours 27 minutes, and declination 12 degrees 41 minutes north. It presented the usual appearance of a telescopic comet, with slight central coudensation.

know more about this thing than I do, just show me where I'm wrong." With this may be compared a conversation at Yale, which was begun by an instructor who was examining some words on the blackboard: "I don't quite understand your figures, Mr. X." "Very well, I'll explain them after recitation." Elsewhere, when a student was explaining a proposition, illustrated by a circle he had drawn on the blackboard, there was a similar interchange: "Isn't that reasoning erroneous?" "Perhaps it is, professor, its 'reasoning in a circle."

A NEWPORT ROMANCE.

Separated by Their Creed, but Faithful Unto Death.

The Jewish cometery lies not far from the synagogue in the sweep made by the Kay street where it joins Touro. In the inclosure are two graves so near each other that as you stand by one you shadow falls upon the other; within them sleep two lovers, separated during life, but united long since by death. Judah Touro and Catharine Hays were cousins, and among the Jews it is a crime for those so near of a kin to marry. True to the relig-ion and traditions of their race they sepaion and traditions of their race they separated never to meet again, although they lived to be old people. Neither of them married, content with the memory of their love and the hearing of each other's welfare from mutual friends. They both died in January, 1854, when he was 79 years of age and Catharine was 77. His name was the last word she uttered, and in his delirium before death called him he talked of walking in a heautiful gawlen. talked of walking in a beautiful garden with Catharine Hays, his first and only love. Judah Touro, however, did not let disappointment embitter his life, for he spent it in active benevolence, and from a fund left by him the means are provided to keep the cemetery in order. It is told of him that he built churches in New Orleans for all sects, even contributing to-ward the erection of a Unitarian place of worship. On his monument the following words are cut: " The last of his name, he inscribed it in the book of philanthropy to be remembered forever."
